

Real Estate Deals 2015: Senior housing is the final puzzle piece at Lions Creek Crossing

The final piece of the puzzle clicked into place for the Lion Creek Crossings community in Oakland last August as the fifth and final phase of the development finished construction. It was a victorious moment for a tract of senior housing that almost didn't happen.

The fifth and final phase of the Lion Creek Crossings project was 128 units of affordable housing for seniors, bringing the total number of units for the entire development to 567. The other units are for people of all ages. The project, which was developed by Related California, the Oakland Housing Authority and the East ...

Kyle Jeffers

Lion Creek Crossing HKIT Architects

Richard Procter is an intern for the San Francisco Business Times.